To Your Name

Thrush?

Do You Know That:

Thrush has been used extensively as a surname for a number of centuries. It owes its usage to the fact that in ancient and medieval times, when most of the people were illiterate, it was common practice for owners of inns, stores and the like to identify their places of business with a readily observable and noticeable sign. In many instances such a sign bore the likeness of a bird such as a thrush and the proprietor of such an establishment was known as "John at the sign of the thrush." Subsequently, the proprietor became known as John Thrush.

Leonard Thrush (1760-1842) served as a private in the Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, militia during the Revolutionary War. He was born and died in Cumberland County.

The first census of the United States, taken in 1790, has five listings of persons by the name of Thrush who were residents of Pennsylvania and heads of families at that time, all of whom lived in Cumberland County. In contrast, the census records of Virginia for the same year have no references to persons by the name of Thrush.

Sixty years later, the Virginia Census Records for the year 1850 contained eight listings of persons by the name of Thrush, four of whom lived in Hampshire County. The latter were Benjamin Thrush of the 255th district; Michael Thrush of the 22nd district, and Peter Thrush and Richard Thrush of the 259th district.

Among the early marriages in Hampshire County was that of Michael Thrush and Catharine Umstott on March 1, 1824.

Dr. Morrish Clayton Thrush (1876-1956), a physician of note, practiced his profession in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Homer Arthur Thrush was born in Wabash County, Indiana on April 28, 1880 and achieved considerable success as an interior and industrialist. In 1921 he organized H. A. Thrush Company, Peru, Indiana, for the manufacture and sale of heating specialties, including temperature controls, valves, water heaters and allied products, for some of which he received U.S. patents. From an original plant occupying 4,000 square feet of floor space, the company grew to several buildings occupying 60,000 square feet of floor space. He established and financed the H. A. Thrush Foundation, a charitable organization for the education and health of youth and other worthy deeds.

Lawrence B. Thrush, a distinguished physician and certified specialist in surgery, practices his profession in Clarksburg, West Virginia.

Peter Kent Thrush, a distinguished physician and specialist in orthopedic surgery, practices his profession in Fairmont, West Virginia.
